Fox trapping on coastal reserves

The Great Ocean Road Coast Committee (GORCC), in partnership with Jan Juc Coast Action Group, will be conducting fox trapping along coastal reserves in Jan Juc and between the Sands and Point Impossible.

The traps are soft-jaw traps designed to hold but not hurt foxes. The traps are also designed to not cause injury to pets or people, however the traps can catch people and pets so the public is encouraged to keep to paths and keep pets under control.

Signs will be in place to alert coastal users to the trappings, which will take place in low use periods (between dusk and dawn).

The trapping will be conducted periodically through the remainder of this year and into 2012.
